

DERIVA

Welcome to our home

The horizon we contemplate through these windows is the same one that, throughout the centuries, connected worlds. But what you are about to taste today is not merely a reflection of this landscape: it is my perspective on it.

My cuisine is an expression of who I am and of the journey I have travelled. I carry with me the memories and roots of my family in India, Mozambique and Portugal, combined with the discipline and precision I absorbed in France. All of this has given me the freedom to create, to find my own voice and to offer a very personal vision of our territory.

I called this menu Deriva. Because being adrift does not mean being lost: it means having the courage to follow your own instinct and embrace your destination. This is my purest form of expression.

This is my story, and it is a privilege to share it with you.

Enjoy the journey.
